

Andrew Harvie is a senior client portfolio manager in the Global Equities team and heads the EMEA equity client portfolio management group. His role is to articulate the team's investment views and capabilities to existing and prospective clients, consultants and intermediaries. Andrew re-joined the company and the team in 2018 from Schroders where he was a client portfolio manager and head of product in the QEP investment team. He held a similar role at Man AHL, Man Group's quantitative investment division, having originally joined as an investment analyst in 2007. He also formed part of the due diligence and product strategy team during Man's acquisition of GLG Partners in 2010.

Andrew has been a member of the investment community since 2003. He received a BSc (Hons) in Economics with Statistics from the University of Bristol.